

October 16,2008

It's about time to start using this space and do some blogging.

First, let me introduce myself. I am Chanin, the owner of Poochie Pants, the best dog diaper on the market. I am owned by a 3 year old Yorkie named Macie. She is the female model of Poochie Pants.

Just a little background on us. Poochie Pants is a company that makes male dog diapers and female dog diapers. We found a way to marry function and style.

Who benefits from our diapers; dog who enjoy marking their territory, dogs that are incontinent, dogs that urinate because they are submissive, dogs who urinate when they get excited, female dogs that are in season/ in heat, and other medical reasons. Did you know female dogs will mark their territory as well? I have heard this from numerous clients-including breeders. Who knew?? A lot of us got females to be spared this frustrating behavior.

What all is this blog going to be used for. Hopefully, I can provide insight into anything dogs. I am by no means an expert. So I'll be learning too. I welcome questions and will try to find answers for you or send you in a direction. I would like to help provide resources as well. From time to time I will also inform you things going on within the dog world-legislation, puppy mills, rescues, rescue events, etc. I'll gladly be passing along dog items I find while shopping. If you have a funny story or product of interest, email me.